Morning Coronation Is High Spot Of Ma-ie Day Festivity

The crowning of a princess, a parade, dances and games will highlight the May 8 Ma-ie Day festivities at Omaha University. Classes are dismissed for this all-school holiday, sponsored annually by the Student Council. Judi Eichhorn is chairman for the event.

Candidates for Ma-ie Day Princess are Malanie Jeub, Zeta Tau Alpha; Jan Moravec, Alpha Xi Delta; Georgia Ruby, Sigma Kappa; Cheryl Shields, Independent Students Association and Earlene Timm, Chi Omega. All the girls are seniors.

Malanie Jeub, a journalism major, was TKE Coral Queen, Typical Freshman, Junior Prom Queen and editor of the 1963 TOMAHAWK. She has served on the Student Council and was first runner-up in the TOMAHAWK Beauty Contest. She was recently crowned AEPie Queen.

An education major, Jan Moravec holds membership in Wao-kiya Corinthians and Kappa Delta Pi honoraries. She was Miss Omaha in her freshman year and is a member of choir and Delta Omicron. She has been on the Student Council.

Georgia Ruby, also an education major, is a member of Womens' Recreation Association, Student Education Association and Geography Club. She holds membership in Kappa Delta Pi and served on the Panhellenic Council. She was recently named to the ten best-dressed list.

Earlene Timm, majoring in education, has been Nebraska

Dairy Princess. She is a cheerleader and is presently reigning as College World Series Queen. She has twice been elected to the Board of Student Publications and is a member of Angels Flight. Earlene was first runner-up in the TOMAHAWK Beauty Contest and was elected junior and senior class secretary.

Ineligible

Conflict arose in scheduling. The activities year runs from September to June and, although Cheryl has sufficient hours for senior standing, she doesn't plan to graduate until August. The ruling came from the office of the Dean of Student Personnel.

During the Ma-ie Day festivities, students will have a chance to "come for fun from sun to sun". Activities begin at 7:30 a.m. with a dance on the S.C. Terrace. Betsy Rasmussen is in charge of the dance, which will be followed by a breakfast in the cafeteria. Pauline Williams is arranging for the breakfast. Tickets for all meals may be purchased May 4-8 in the lobby of the Student Center for 50 cents each.

The Ma-ie Day Princess, who will reign over the day's activities, will be announced at 9 a.m. by Student Council President

Dud Kersey. She will be crowned on the terrace while students will be asked to remain on the lawn below.

A parade including 11 floats and 125 decorated cars will go by Creighton University and through downtown Omaha at 10:30 a.m. The Princess and her court will ride on a float built by the O-Club. The floats and cars will be judged by a panel of outstanding Omaha citizens with awards being presented at the Friday evening dance. Students will be able to sign to drive cars in the parade in the Student Center May 4-7. Jim Grasso is parade chairman.

A picnic lunch, organized by Kristy Isaacson, will be held at 11:30 a.m. in the Pep Bowl south of the Gene Eppley Library with competitive games following.

Patti Matson is in charge of the games, including a pie-eating contest, egg toss, orange-on-neck relay and potato sack race. A "Biggest Idiot" will also be crowned at this time.

A Ma-ie Day dance at Peony Park from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. will conclude the day's activities. The highlight of the dance will be a special hour program to be presented by a nationally-known folk-singing group, the Coventry Singers. Winners of the float and car competition will be awarded trophies during intermission and the Ma-ie Day Princess will also be honored at that time. Eddy Haddad's Orchestra is to provide music for the dance.

OU Council Visits Possible Students Advantages, Activities Topics of Talks

Nine Omaha-Council Bluffs high schools have been visited this spring by Omaha University students for the purpose of promoting OU and college in general. The visitations are sponsored annually by the Student Council.

The visitations consisted of speeches by various students before high school assemblies. Topics for the speeches included the advantages of attending OU, activities and clubs on campus, scholarship, dress and athletics.

Patti Matson was Benson High School visitation chairman and Rich Tompsett had charge of Beveridge. Jim Grasso organized the Technical High School visitation and the chairman for South was Shari Zagor.

Kristy Isaacson was chairman for Westside High School while Doug Slaughter visited Thomas Jefferson High School and Shirley Johnson organized the North High program. Judi Eichhorn was Central High visitation chairman and Gary Masilko visited Abraham Lincoln High in Council Bluffs.

Dr. Gale Oleson, Director of Academic Testing and Counseling and Lt. Col. Emilio Ratti attended each visitation.

Representatives were chosen on a basis of their records both at their own high school and at the University. The students included Claude Jelen, Marsha Hanek, Joe Beninato and Meridee Fokken, Central; Jane Stockman, Bill Olson, Tom Wolff and Claudia Chorley, Westside; Chet McCarthy, Rosalie Thomas and Doris Jenkins, Abraham Lincoln.

Foreign Film Series To Show 'Rasho Mon'

The Foreign Film Festival will present "Rasho Mon" on May 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the OU Conference Center Auditorium. A student activity card admits one to the series.

The Japanese movie contains four different stories of a brutal act.

The last film in the series, "Macario", will be shown on May 12. It is a story of a poor Mexican peasant who is confronted with the Devil, God and Death.

Corps Men To Receive Scholarships

Angels and Sabres Will Perform

Today at 10:30 a. m. marks the beginning of the annual President's Day Review. At first this review was only considered an inspection but throughout the years has gained in importance.

This occasion now not only gives the President of Omaha University a chance to see the development of the AFROTC program but also gives cadets who have shown outstanding abilities in the Corps a chance to be recognized by awards, medals and scholarships.

Some of the awards to be given out today are as follows: The Pen and Sword Scholarship presented by Lt. Col. Ervan L. Amidon to the most outstanding junior cadet; the President's Medal to the outstanding senior cadet and the Professor of Air Science Metal, presented to a junior cadet who has contributed the most to the AFROTC program. Members of many of the Service Clubs will also be present to give out other awards.

During the Review performances will be given by the Sabre Drill Team, commanded by Cadet Capt. William Applegate and the Marching Angels commanded by Cadet Capt. Robert Cords.

Following the President's Day Review the traditional AFROTC picnic will be held in Elmwood Park for the Cadets and Angels.

Members of the Zebra Flight, consisting of pledges for the Arnold Air Society are in charge of cooking the lunch for the cadets.

At past picnics it has been the tradition that Basic Cadets play Advance Cadets in baseball. Usually the winner of the game has a surprise in store for the loser.

OU Engineering Department Begin Technological Format

Kinney Will Be Head Of New Program

Omaha University has hired a full time director of the Technical Institute in the Department of Engineering. The new director, Ed Kinney, will head a program which will provide training for many new occupations created by the rapid technological changes in the industry.

The program is aimed at engineer technician positions in the areas of construction, electronics, drafting and design. Each will consist of a two year college level program which falls between the high school program and the professional engineering course.

Basic Principles

The Technical Institute will emphasize the understanding of the basic principles of engineering, math and science. Both OU staff and industry lecturers will instruct in the program.

Day and evening courses will be offered in the fall term. Summer courses will be conducted if interest is shown. An associate title may be earned upon the completion of the two year credit program. Courses will also be offered on a non-credit basis for both day and evening students.

High School Grads

The institute is open to high school graduates who have capability in the technician field and are well rounded in high school math and science. Admission to the Technical Institute for the summer or fall terms is thru the regular University admission procedure.

Electronic laboratory equipment of the latest design is being provided for the program. All present OU facilities will be made available to the students of the Technical Institute.

Survey

The director of the Technical Institute, said a survey of the Omaha area indicates that there is a need for well trained technicians.

Kinney added, "A qualified technician should experience little difficulty in securing a good position". He added that two years of intensive technical training will advance a student along the way toward personal success in a field of his own choice selected to challenge his particular capabilities.

Kinney is a civil engineer graduate from Minnesota. He is a professional engineer with experience in construction and engineering design.

Record High In Book Circulation

April 13-18 was the biggest week in the history of the Gene Eppley Library, according to Miss Ellen Lord, head librarian.

Book circulation during that week reached a record high of 10,397, more than one book per student at the University of Omaha.

This peak in circulation was attributed to a need for materials in completing term papers. Books on literature, history and business administration headed the list of student choices.

Did Shakespeare Really Compose All That Stuff?

Momentous Question, Unusual Answer

By JIM COWMAN

A big question on campus these days is: "Did Shakespeare really write all those plays and, if so, why?" Another big question on campus is: "Will I pass my finals?", but this is relatively unimportant.

At any rate (and rates these days are exorbitant), I recently took the following survey to clear the air, to say nothing of my sinus passages.

In regard to the question—"Did Shakespeare write those plays and stuff?":

—22 per cent replied, "Shakespeare who?"

—13 per cent said; "Look buddy, if you don't quit bugging me I'm going to break your pencil".

—7 per cent replied, "I haven't the foggiest idea", and fell asleep while standing up.

—16 per cent asked, "Haven't you got anything better to do than go around asking stupid questions?"

—32 per cent thought that the question was a little too controversial for comment, (half said "no comment" and half said "I think that the question is a little too controversial cha-cha-cha").

The remaining 10 percent skipped that day.

Since this survey raised more questions than it answered, I knew it was good. However, I took it upon myself to solve the original question. And the simple solution can be found in the following poem (supposedly Shakespeare's):

Zounds! What Ho! And all that jazz,
Methinks the Ice Man Cometh.
A hit! A hit! A palatable hit!
Right in the Fat King's stomach.

Now, by ingeniously rearranging certain letters in this famous quatrain we have discovered the real author. It is none other than the great-great-great-grandfather of Tennessee Williams—Warwickshire Williams!

I hope that satisfied all you anti-Stratfordians.

OU's Art Auction Is Next Sunday

Instead of the usual "five ball in the side pocket", the shouts of "going, going, gone" will be heard on the first floor of the Student Center Sunday.

On that day the Art Club will hold its annual art auction. Starting at 1 p.m. there will be a coffee hour to give prospective buyers a chance to browse around and look at the works.

The type of bid, either verbal or written, will be decided by the art department's faculty committee. It will also decide the works to appear in the auction.

Dr. John Blackwell, chairman of the art department, pointed out that the auction is being held to gain financial aid for art students. Seventy-five per cent of the sale's proceeds will be applied to that student's next semester's tuition, except in the case of graduating seniors or non-returning students who will get the full price. The remaining amount will go to the Art Club to finance its activities.

For each five dollars worth of works purchased, the customer will get a ticket giving him a chance to win one of four works by members of the art faculty in a drawing.

Kenneth Nehmer, art instructor, and Warren Gore, speech instructor are the auctioneers.

Mrs. Spangler . . . finds challenge in OU work

Emphasis Is On Challenge In Daily Work of Spangler

by Georgia Rogers

Challenge has always played an important role in the life of Mrs. Hazel Spangler. It continues to do so in her present position as secretary to Dr. Milo Bail. As she expresses it "working for Dr. Bail means new challenges every day and this is something we all need".

Perhaps her biggest challenge came when she was widowed at 26, had three small children to support and no immediate means to do so. Since opportunities were limited in the small town in which she was living, she came to Omaha and took a training course which prepared her for employment with the Martin Modification Center. She has been working steadily ever since.

She stayed with the Martin Company until a month before the first Atomic bomb was dropped over Japan. She then went to work for Dunn and Bradstreet in a combined secretarial-accounting position. She remained there until 1955 when she joined the staff of the University of Omaha as secretary to Charles Hoff, Business Manager and Vice President in Charge of Finance.

Mr. Hoff's death and the departure of Mrs. Vesta Benson, former secretary to Dr. Bail, coincided and at this time she was asked by Dr. Bail to take Mrs. Benson's place.

The year was 1958 and it proved to be an eventful one! In addition to her new position with the University she also became the wife of W. Dale Spangler, Supervisor in the Installation Division of Western Electric Company.

Another indication of Mrs. Spangler's ability to meet challenges is the fact that other than her high school training and a few courses at the University she has had no formal secretarial training. As she puts it she learned by experience—a slow route but a sure one!

And a successful one judging by the fact she is now serving as President of the Ak Sar Ben Chapter of the National Secretaries Association.

This group recently elected Dr. Bail "Boss of the Year". However, it is obvious in speaking to Mrs. Spangler that even if the Association hadn't made it official, to her Dr. Bail is the boss of this or any other year.

She mentions the ability he has to inspire everyone to do their best; his amazing memory which enables him to recall names and occupations of returning alumnus several years after their graduation; his belief in giving credit where credit is due; his calm, reasoning manner while dealing with the countless problems attached to running a University. And, if people are involved, the fact they usually leave his office smiling!

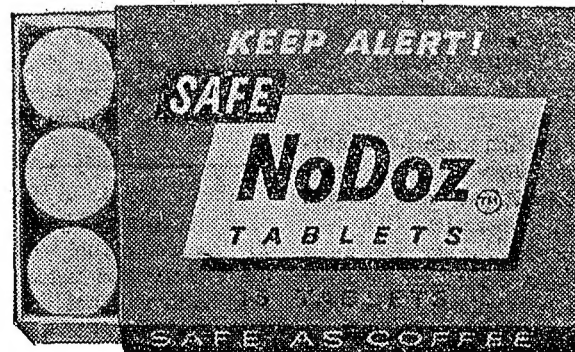

What free time Mrs. Spangler has is taken up with three grandchildren as well as hobbies of yard work and knitting.

In addition to belonging to the National Secretaries Association she is a member of St. John's Episcopal Church and the Owassa Chapter of the Eastern Star.

Immediate plans call for a summer trip to San Francisco to visit two of her children. She has also been asked to serve on the National Election Committee of the National Secretaries Association which will meet this summer in Washington, D. C.

Disciplinary action has resulted in the ineligibility of Sigma Phi Epsilon to participate in campus activities until Aug. 31, 1964.

Major and Captain Rusk . . . from OU to marriage

Bootstrappers Travels Lead To OU Studies and Marriage

School bells and wedding bells rang last September for Major and Mrs. Richard Rusk, two bootstrappers who found more than knowledge while finishing their degree requirements here at OU. They found each other.

Major Richard Rusk, a veteran in the Army Signal Corps and soldier for 16 years, met his wife Elizabeth, a Captain in the Army Nursing Corps, here at OU. "We don't believe in long engagements," they said in unison. They had only known each other a few weeks before they were married during a quiet service in a local Omaha church. "The ceremony seemed a little unusual," said Mrs. Rusk, "because my husband and I as well as our attendants wore the blue, army dress uniforms."

Mr. and Mrs. Rusk, although both from the midwest, traveled nearly all around the world before they met. "I entered the army in 1948," said Mr. Rusk. "I was an enlisted man for two years in the paratroopers." After this, Mr. Rusk attended the Officers Candidate School and was commissioned as a second lieutenant when only 19.

Lieutenant Rusk was then exposed to many experiences including service in Korea, three years in Europe, one year in Saigon and Viet Nam. In 1956, he graduated from the US Command and General Staff College with rank as Major. A short time later, Mr. Rusk came to OU to complete a degree in his bachelor in general education with a business major.

Captain Elizabeth Rusk was born in Fargo, North Dakota where she studied nursing. In 1958, she entered the army nursing corps as a Lieutenant and was stationed at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington until 1962.

"I was then stationed for two years in Frankfurt, Germany," said Mrs. Rusk. After her tour of duty was finished there, she came home and attended an advanced military nursing course at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas. She came to OU to finish her nursing degree in 1963.

Mr. and Mrs. Rusk will be stationed in Frankfurt, Germany upon graduating from OU this fall. "We'll finally get to take that honeymoon we haven't had yet," said Mr. Rusk.

Media Gathers To Give Awards To Journalists

Grow, Prai, Thibault Are Outstanding

A score of Omaha newsmen descended upon the Omaha University campus last Monday. However not all of them were here to get a story.

Twenty-six OU journalism students were honored at the department's ninth annual Journalism Awards Banquet.

The main speaker at the event was Frank Scott, currently serving as news director at radio station KBON. Scott graduated from OU in 1954.

Advantages

Talking about broadcast journalism, Scott pointed out the advantages of radio and television over newspapers. He especially pointed out that after the Kennedy assassination in November, radio was on the air in six minutes, while the first newspaper came out in 40 minutes and was already outdated.

At the banquet, Scott was awarded a plaque for being the outstanding journalism alum of 1964.

A special award was also presented to Maurice Shadle of the Omaha World Herald. Shadle was given the award for 25 years of distinguished service in covering OU sports.

Following the dinner, Shadle told the students that OU offered an excellent program in journalism and turned out as good a student as any other school.

Dwayne Brown of the Sun newspapers and Vice President of the Omaha Press Club presented Roger Prai, a senior, the Walter Panko, Jr., Memorial Scholarship. Brown also presented Prai with a check for $100.

ZTA Award

Malanie Jeub presented Marilou Thibault with the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority award for contributing the most to student publications in the past year. Miss Thibault is editor of the 1964 TOMAHAWK.

Following a vote by the students, Bill Grow was presented a trophy by Dean Carl Helmstadter. Named outstanding journalism student, Grow is currently editor of the GATEWAY.

Walter B. Graham, acting head of the department of journalism, presented 26 students with bronze, silver and gold keys.

Key Awards

Those students receiving keys are:

Jo Ann Bishop, Barbara Brown, Diane Cade, Dick Fletcher, James Gember, Ellen Goesser, Bill Grow, Sherri Hronek, Malanie Jeub, Al Johnson, Ken McEwen, Patricia Matson, Leo Meidlinger, Wilson Moore, Mike Moran, Carol Neuman, Hans Nohr, Robert Olson, Roger Prai, Larry Porter, Georgia Rogers, Dick Smith, Mardelle Tarkington, Marilou Thibault, Kathy Vail and Ruth White.

Phi Mu Alpha music fraternity will hold its annual jazz concert on May 6 at 8 p.m. in the Administration Building Auditorium. Admission is free.

Alum Loan Service Ends For Semester

The Omaha University Alumni Association announced this week that no more student loans will be given out for the rest of the semester.

Since the fund is a revolving one, the time is needed to get all of the money back before the semester ends.

Writer, Producer, Hostess: Jan Seaman Is All Three!

Some students may have recognized a familiar face on KETV last Sunday—it was that of Jan Seaman, a senior majoring in both Speech and Physical Education.

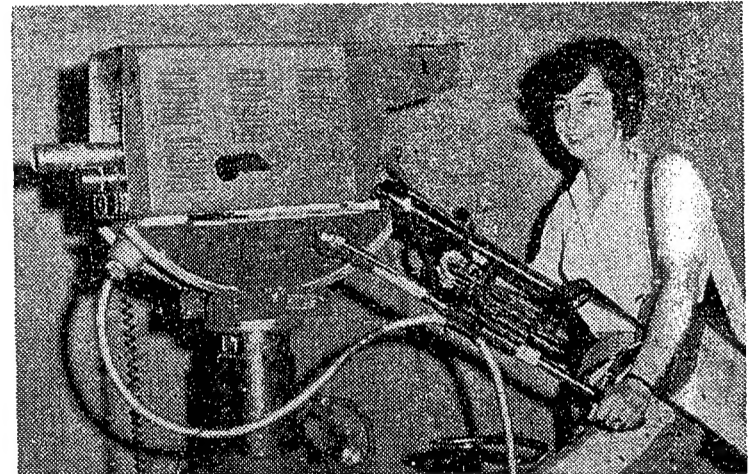

Jan was the hostess of the half-hour musical program, "The Wonderful World of Woodwinds" and she will also preside over another program called "Band Billboard", which will be seen on KMTV, Sunday, May 10.

"Band Billboard" will feature the Omaha University Concert Band under the direction of Jack Malik, plus some performances by individuals. The half-hour program, from 5:30 to 6 p.m., is scheduled to contain a "collection of popular American musical selections," said Jan, "and it will include Show Tunes, a March, Night Club music, and a Dixieland number."

Although Jan wrote and produced both "The Wonderful World of Woodwinds", and the up-coming "Band Billboard", her planned career is centered around Physical Education rather than television work. After graduation, Jan said that she will aim for her Masters degree in P.E. in California.

Jan is active in extra-curricular activities. Some of her accomplishments include: past Vice President of Alpha Xi Delta; member of Kappa Delta Pi, the Education Honorary; and President of the Women's Recreation Association. Jan's favorite sport is bowling, and she is the past President of the Bowling Club.

"Run Come See" Is Council's Word

Dr. Crane . . . teaching one of his last classes as head of OU's Economics department

Cranes' Retirement Picture Can Not Be Considered Leisurely

Ruth White

Professor Roderic B. Crane, head of the Economics Department at Omaha University, will retire from his full-time teaching post on July 15, 1964. However, the verbal picture he draws of retirement is hardly that of an aging gentleman who plans to spend his declining years in leisure.

A tall man who gives the impression of tremendous vitality, Professor Crane said of his plans for the future, "I hope to take up some of the business pursuits I gave up when I went into teaching and to continue to serve the community in ways where my experience can be useful."

Professor Crane is chairman of the board of the Bridges Investment Fund, Inc., and functions as a member of its investment committee.

He is vice president of the Nebraska Tax Research Council, is a past president of the Omaha-Lincoln Society of Financial Analysts, a member of the executive committee of the Omaha Committee on Foreign Relations, and belongs to the Omaha Rotary Club.

Impressive

The Professor's activities at OU are impressive. He was assistant to President Milo Bail for 15 years. He is a member of the Administrative Council and the Athletic Committee. He is chairman of the University Curriculum Committee.

In the fall of 1961, Professor Crane was appointed to fill the newly endowed Frederick W. Kayser Chair of Economics at OU. Since this position emphasizes the role of a teacher, his administrative activities at the University were ended.

In connection with this appointment, Professor Crane writes "An Invitation to Controversy", a quarterly pamphlet covering current economic problems. The pamphlet is sent to about 1,000 subscribers, including colleges, universities, and secondary schools.

No Idea

Until September 1936, Professor Crane says that he had no idea of becoming an educator. However, the Dean of the University, knowing that Mr. Crane was qualified to teach, asked him to take a class. Mr. Crane replied that he had never talked before more than two people at a time before and that he couldn't possibly give a 50-minute lecture.

According to Professor Crane the Dean replied that this was an emergency situation, that he was scraping the bottom of the barrel, and that he had to have someone.

"I felt sorry for him and decided to teach purely as a personal favor," said Professor Crane. "I prepared three weeks for the first lecture and was a nervous wreck until it was over. Then I came home and told my wife that I had found my real vocation — teaching; that nothing I had ever done compared with it."

"The University apparently found my efforts satisfactory, for at the end of the year I was asked to teach full-time. So, I gradually withdrew from my business activities and concentrated on catching up with the subject matter in my fields."

Would Stay

Professor Crane says that even if he had been free to leave Omaha, he would have stayed at the University because:

—I like an institution of this size. It isn't too big and impersonal. It isn't just a mass production brain factory.

—I like the type of student body that we have. Many students have to work to provide part or all of their tuition. They are serious and appreciative students.

—Our faculty is outstanding. It is a pleasure to be associated with such an able and dedicated group of men.

—OU, because of its municipal status, gives primary emphasis to teaching rather than to research. Research is very important, but that is not where my primary interest lies.

Two Classes

Professor Crane will teach two classes in Money and Banking next fall.

"I have enjoyed the stimulus of the classroom so long that it has become a habit which will take a little time to break. I am happy that my connection with the University does not have to be severed abruptly as is usually the case for those who retire from corporate positions," observed Professor Crane.

Dr. E. J. Steele will succeed Professor Crane as head of the Department of Economics.

Hill and Oleson KETV Guests

Dean Elizabeth Hill and Dr. B. G. Oleson of Omaha University will be special guests on a KETV interview on "Higher education," May 9th at 12 noon.

The program is designed to give Omaha an inside view on what is happening at Omaha University and what will happen in the future.

Admissions, testing, registration and vocations are among some of the topics.

Some of the major problems concerning all higher education, such as the drop-out problem, and the study habits of present students, along with the implications of part-time jobs and their influence on the study environment also will be discussed.

Spagunolo Addresses AKD

Noted Professor of Foreign Languages, Sebastian Spagunolo both informed and entertained members of the AKD and Sociology Club Monday evening.

Persons who attended the meeting were enlightened by Professor Spagunolo's talk, "The American Image In Latin American". For twelve years Professor Spagunolo lived in Latin American countries serving both private industry and the American government.

He stressed that there is a great dependency of the United States on products from Latin America. The States need many of the raw materials produced in these countries.

Professor Spagunolo was accepted first as a Latin American because of his name. Later he was accepted as a friend and through his efforts other Americans have been accepted in Latin America.

He feels that it is important for Americans to realize that Latin Americans have their own culture and their own way of doing things. Like most people, they are reluctant to change.

For example, he pointed out that when one conducts a business transaction it is not in the brisk official and impersonal American manner. Before any business is transacted it is customary to discuss weather, family, politics and anything imaginable until after several days the business can be transacted on a very friendly basis.

Dr. Vatro Murvar of the Sociology department expressed his gratitude and enjoyment of Professor Spagunolo's speech. He said that any club on the University campus would be fortunate to have him as a guest speaker.

Backes, Sayers, Peterson Named As Top OU Athletes

By JIM GEMBER

Wayne Backes, Roger Sayers and Jack Peterson. Those names will go down in the history of Omaha University sports annals.

These three athletes were among the many honored at last Sunday's Third Annual All-Sports Banquet.

Backes was the "bread and butter" player of OU football, getting those extra yards when the team needed them. In the spring Backes' talents turn to baseball where he is currently Coach Virg Yelkin's top hitter with a .545 batting average.

Sayers? What more can be said about the great one. As Faculty Athletic Committee Chairman, George Harris put it, "Everytime Sayers ran your heart began thumping 20 beats faster." To get the full effect of Sayer's talents you have to watch him in action. You had to be in Drake's stadium to get the full impact of the "Rockets" 99½ yard run against the Bulldogs. Sayers was at his best that day showing a form and flash that Drake fans will not see for a long time to come.

What about Peterson? The big guy from Omaha North showed football fans in the Midwest what defense really meant. His 290 lbs. on a 6'5" frame meant terror from every opposing lineman to any little "helpless" halfback who tried to run by him.

Backes and Sayers were named as the Alumni Athlete of the Year. Peterson was not only lauded for his talents on the football field but also for his achievements in the classroom. He was honored as the Alumni Scholar Athlete of the Year.

Backes was again called to the platform for the outstanding back award for football. "Big Pete" was named outstanding lineman of the year along with accepting three All-American awards for his turf talents.

EndMike DiBiase was lauded as the outstanding first year man.

In basketball Sam Singleton was presented the Most Valuable Player award and Larry Villnow was named as the Most Improved Player.

Jimmy Jones was given the Ken Bristol MV wrestler trophy and was the honorary wrestling captain for the past season. Jones has been selected to compete in the Olympic tryouts at the New York World's Fair in August. The Most Improved wrestler award went to freshman Rich Tomasek and the best first year man was Gerry Shook.

OU President Dr. Milo Bail was presented three trophies. Along with the CIC football and baseball trophies, Bail accepted the NAIA track runner-up trophy.

Sayers was honored again for winning the NAIA's Championship in the 100 yard and 220 yard dashes during the past season.

Jack Payne, WOW-TV Sports Announcer was host for the affair.

Cheerleaders

Cheerleader tryouts will be held today from 3:30 to 5:00 p.m. in the Fieldhouse. Anyone interested is urged to attend.

Sayers And Co. Travel To S. D. For Wood Relay

By Mike Moran

Next stop for the Omaha University track express is Sioux Falls, South Dakota tomorrow night.

On tap are the Howard Wood Relays at the scene of the NAIA Track and Field Championships last June.

The track is no stranger to Indian track stars Terry Williams and Roger Sayers. Two years ago at the NAIA meet, Sayers whipped Bob Hayes to win the 100 yard dash and then took a third in the 220 finals.

Last year, Sayers had to contend with North Carolina College's Edwin Roberts but this time took both the 100 and the 220 to lead Omaha to second place national honors behind Maryland State and the fabulous Russel Rogers.

Popular Pair

Sayers and Williams are a certainty to lure a top crowd for the night affair in the South Dakota city. Williams was third in the NAIA 100 last year behind Sayers and won the Howard Wood century earlier in the year when Sayers was nursing an injured leg.

The Omaha Rocket holds the University Division record of 9.5 for the 100 and that mark will be in jeopardy from both OU sprinters if their early performances are a measuring stick.

Sayers, especially is far ahead his pace of last year. His photo finish 220 with Henry Carr of Arizona State at the Drake Relays in 21 second flat stamps him as one of the top sprinters so far in the young season.

Go "Rocket"!

The Rocket is beginning to pick up where he left off two years ago when he was a member of the U.S. team that whipped the Russians in Palo Alto, California.

Sayers is drawing national attention to himself by his performances at Kansas and Drake and a number of invitations to top Relays meets are in the mail right now to Coach Lloyd Cardwell asking for the Rocket's appearance.

Cardwell plans a full migration to the Wood Relays tomorrow night. Entries in the relays, hurdles and individual events are on tap for the Indians in an effort to smash several marks.

Co-ed Of The Week

Ushering in the month of May as "Co-ed of the Week" is 20-year-old Shari Zagor.

Our first May "Co-ed" is a Junior majoring in Education and is currently student teaching at Indian Hills Junior High School. A member of Alpha Xi Delta, Shari spends a great deal of her time on campus as she is a member of the Student Council, Angels Flight, Alpha Lambda Delta, Kappa Delta Pi and Corinthians. In what extra time she has, she can sometimes be found in the Promotion Office at KETV.

A tip of the GATEWAY hat is extended to Shari Zagor, "Co-ed of the Week".

Full Scrimmage Tomorrow To Highlight Spring Football

The Indians will end four weeks of spring football practice by participating in a full scrimmage tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. at the OU stadium.

Coach Al Caniglia's CIC champs will be divided up into two squads. The Red squad will be bolstered by Quarterback Marlin Briscoe. Briscoe, an understudy to Carl Meyers last season, has showed great potential. The South High graduate will be guiding a squad that has Jimmy Jones at one end and Gerry Allen at left halfback. Both Jones and Allen were on the first string last season. The Red Squad:

Ends—Mike DiBiase, Jim Jones and Mike Gittings
Tackles—Dave Rak and Bill Jansen

Guards—Harlen Aden and Jeff New Center—Reed Shipman Quarterback—Marlin Briscoe Halfbacks—Gerald Allen, Don Moray and Bill Ernest Fullbacks—Larry Crum and Larry Troholz

The White Squad will be guided by letterman Joe Benson. The halfback position looks secure with Rich Combs, Cal McGruder and Carl Allison. McGruder and Allison are graduates of North High's 1962 Intercity champions. Both were offensive and defensive standouts while at North.

The White squad:
Ends—Terry Edwards, Jim Norris, and Gary Neuman
Tackles—Tom Hutchinson and Don Loftus
Guards—Jerry Ferguson, Paul Cullen and Larry Von Tersch
Center—Willard Shepard
Quarterbacks—Joe Benson and Dennis Foster
Halfbacks—Rich Combs, Cal McGruder and Carl Allison
Fullbacks—Tom Wolff and Jim Rauch

CIC Title Hopes On The Line ?

By DICK FLETCHER

The Central Intercollegiate Conference Baseball championship will probably be decided tomorrow night in a double-header at Municipal Stadium. Games scheduled for 6 and 8 p.m. will pit last year's co-champions together for the only times this year. Omaha University is the front runner with a 2-0 record; Washburn University of Topeka, Kans., has a 3-1 loop mark. They split a double header with Emporia State for their only loss. OU opened conference action last weekend with 4-0 and 10-3 wins over Emporia state. Coach Virgil Yelkin rates the Ichabods as the team to beat as OU attempts to capture their sixth straight CIC crown. Washburn will face an Indian team led by two bonafide All-American candidates—outfielder Wayne Backes and pitcher Larry Krehbiel. Backes, a senior, went on a hitting rampage against Emporia State, getting six hits in seven at-bats, and raised his batting average up to .545 Krehbiel has a string of 21 consecutive scoreless innings pitched this year, a 3-0 record, 29 strike outs, and a perfect 0.000 earned run average.

Rich Vacek Slides in safe

Two additions to the squad are expected to help the Indians. Coach Yelkin announced the eligibility of sophomore Jim Collins, a first baseman, and Senior Jim Kincaid. Collins is from Omaha South, and Kincaid, a pitcher, is from South Bend, Ind. OU's season record stands at 9-0, with eight games left on the slate. Inclement weather caused the postponement of a game set for Wednesday with cross-town rival, Creighton University. It will be played as part of a double header on May 6. The Indians and Bluejays will get together for two seven-inning contests at municipal stadium at 6 and 8 p.m.

Let's say for a minute, this is you.

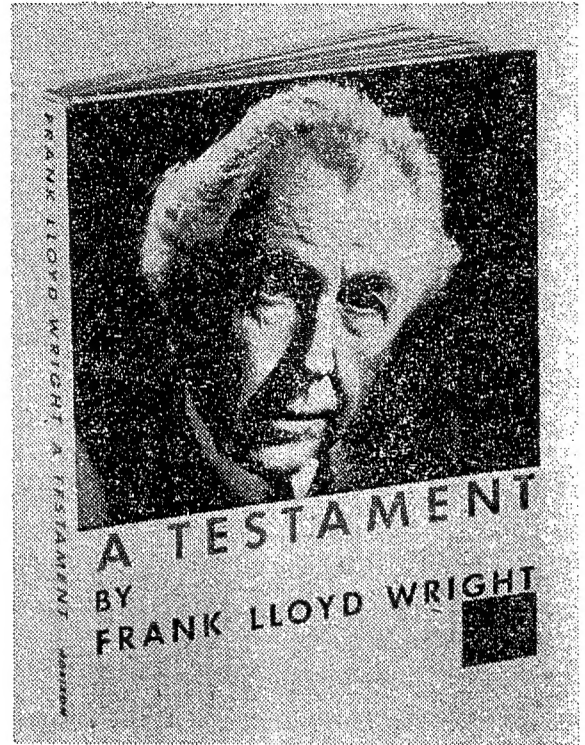

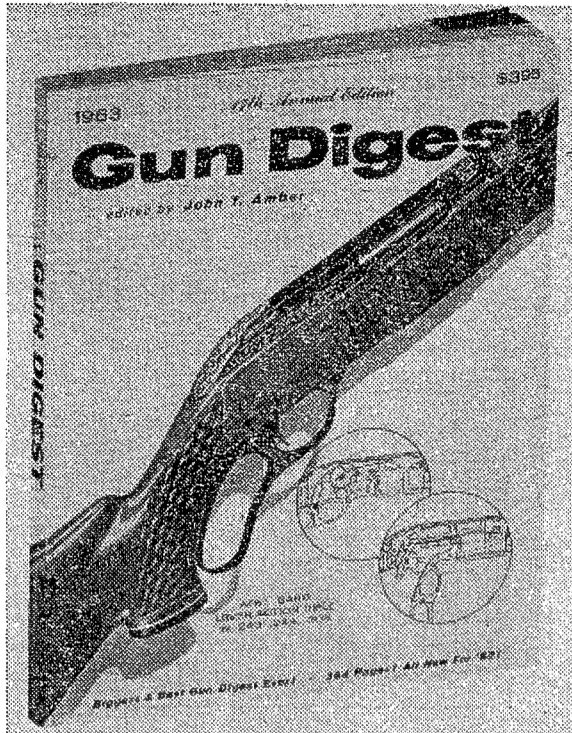

Once you wear the gold bars of a second lieutenant in the United States Air Force, what's in store for you? Well, you may fly an aircraft entrusted with a vital defense mission. Or you may lead a research team tackling problems on the frontier of knowledge. You'll be helping to run an organization that's essential to the safety of the free world. Sounds like you'll be called on to shoulder a good deal of responsibility, doesn't it? But when you come right down to it, that's what your college years have been preparing you for. You've got ability and a good education. Now's the time to put them to work! You'll have every opportunity to prove your talents in the Air Force. By doing so, you can put yourself and your country ahead. If you're not already enrolled in ROTC, you can earn your commission at Air Force Officer Training School—a three-month course that's open to both men and women college graduates.
